BRINGS BIG CARGO.

Sch. Tattler Brings Salt Herring from Bonne Bay.

Made Good Passage with Her Foremast Broken.

Sch. Tattler, Capt. Joseph Bonia, arrived from Bonne Bay, N. F., yesterday, with a big fare consisting of 1900 barrels of salt herring in bulk, 100 barrels of pickled herring and 30,000 pounds of codfish.

The Tattler sailed from here last May, fitted for a long salt codfishing trip. Like many of the others of the fleet, Capt. Bonia found fish and bait very scarce. He tried on many of the banks and at favorite fishing spots all around the island of Newfoundland, but with little success, taking about 30,000 pounds. He then determined to secure a cargo of salt herring to fill up his big craft.

He tried at White Bay, but found it early for herring there and then came around to Bonne Bay. Here he was more fortunate, for shortly after he arrived the herring struck in and he quickly got nearly a load. Then the fish suddenly disappeared and he was three days getting the 300 barrels necessary to complete his fare.

Sch. Edna Wallace Hopper came there when he was nearly loaded, but when the Tattler left had taken no herring.

Coming out of Bonne Bay last Sunday the Tattler had the misfortune to crack her foremast, so that in the heavy wind and sea encountered it buckled badly, and it was necessary to heave the craft to and in the face of the bad weather, go aloft and take down the fore topmast. It was a job requiring nerve and judgment to take down the topmast in the midst of the rough sea and strong wind, but Capt. Bonia and his men accomplished it, and after hours of hard work had the stick on deck, thus taking considerable of the strain off the broken foremast, which had to be favored all the way home. (Notwithstanding her crippled condition the Tattler made a good passage, being only a week coming home.

Bay of Islands Herring News.

The sch. Tattler, Capt. J. Bonia, which had been to White Bay in quest of herring had an unsuccessful trip there, and had to come to this side of the island to find fish. She put into Bonne Bay, where herring were plentiful, a load was secured, and she sailed for Gloucester on Friday.—Western Star, Nov. 2.

The news from the herring resorts is more encouraging since our last issue. The fish are in the bay in great numbers, and good catches are being secured. At Woods Island, McIvers, Middle and Humber Arms the fish continue fairly plentiful. The first vessels to arrive have loaded and sailed. They were the Georgie Campbell, Smuggler and Kentucky. The Columbia and Ralph L. Hall were at Middle Arm and expected to finish on Monday, and the Carrie Babson finished loading last evening, and the Bessie M. Devine is about half loaded. During the week a great many vessels have arrived from Gloucester, including the Dora A. Lawson, Lewis H. Giles, Blanche, Ingomar, Corsair, Golden Hope, Robin Hood, Dauntless, Independence, II., and A. M. Nicholson. During the week another large fleet of vessels will arrive.—Western Star, Nov. 2.

Good Stocks.

Sch. Thalia, Capt. Ernest Engstrom, stocked $1684.70 on her recent halibut trip, the crew sharing $67.

Sch. Lucania, Capt. Martin L. Welch, stocked $1200 on her recent quick haddocking trip, the crew sharing $30.

Sch. Ella M. Goodwin, Capt. James Goodwin, stocked $1000 on her recent short haddocking trip, the crew sharing $27.

Saw Large Mackerel Schools.

Capt. McKown of the Gloucester fishing schooner Saladin, which cleared Friday from Halifax for the fishing grounds, reports seeing Friday large schools of mackerel between Guyon Island and St. Esprit. Quantities were also observed off Sambro Thursday evening going west, but owing to the high winds and partial stormy weather no hauls were made.

Mackerel Notes.

Latest reports from Ireland report the mackerel fishery there very poor at present. The fish are running from 350 to 400 count per barrel.

BIG RUN OF HERRING.

Largest Ever Known at Ipswich Tuesday Night.

The largest run of herring ever known at Ipswich was seen last Tuesday evening, but the demand was by no means commensurate with the supply, as millions of fish could have been taken. While in some years the herring have been chased all over the bay, this season they come into Plum Island sound. On Tuesday evening it is said that so solidly were the fish packed in the river a person might almost have walked upon them without sinking. So fascinating has the fishing become that every night one or more of the boats takes down some laymen to watch the sport. Among those who have taken the trip is Theodore Wendel, the artist, who has provided himself with a regular suit of oilskins and goes down frequently. He pronounced the scene one of the most fascinating he ever saw, either in this country or across the water. On Tuesday night there were 38 puff boats on the sound, their flaring torches, of which some boats carry three, throwing a weird light upon the yellow garments, the bronze faces and the dark water. So far this season no accident of any kind has been reported.

BANKERS BRING SMALL FARES

Several of the Fleet Arrive Since Last Report.

Since last report five of the salt bank fleet have arrived here and all bring the same news as did those who have come before of bad weather and scarcity of fish. The crafts are schs. Senator Gardner, Emma E. Witherell, Arabia, Orpheus and Horace B. Parker and they have from 75,000 to 150,000 pounds each.

Salt Herring Sales.

The cargo of salt herring of sch. Tattler sold to several of the big smoking concerns to be divided between them.

Good Georges Trip.

Sch. Ella G. King, Capt. Nels Lawson, arrived from a Georges handline trip yesterday with a good fare, 10,000 pounds of large salt cod and 7000 pounds of fresh halibut. On this same trip the craft landed $400 worth of halibut at Portland.
